

SCREEN MAGAZINE

Issue No. 68

1194

Vol 1
THE country declares there are not enough guns, but just the same the Ordnance Bureau is turning them out as fast as they can, as Screen Magazine shows in a very illuminating revelation of the country's growing facilities for turning out munitions of war. As a direct contrast to this martial chapter, a novelty in the shape of a manikin circus, with acts all performed by an entirely new process of photography, is interposed. The Department of Agriculture urges the country to raise as many chickens as possible, and the Magazine shows how it may be done, and done profitably. There is also an animated interview, a new departure with the Screen Magazine. This one is with Dorothy Dix, the highest paid newspaper woman in the world. Willie Hopkins also contributes a "Miracle in Mud," entitled "Some Eggs."
